MONDAY EVENING, SEPT. 5

The Barber's Idea.

Bentley had been out late the night before, or, rather, he had stayed in late in a little affair, and about all he had left to show for it in the morning was an old fashioned away-from-homemade headache. In hope of relief he had sought his old friend, the barber, and the latter had been busy on Bentley's head and face for the past hour.
"By Jove, Karl," said Bentley as the barber rubbed the top of his head, "that feels mighty good. I can tell you.
The man who invented massage was not only a genius, but a benefactor to the whole human race. They ought to put up a statue to him. There's nothing like it when a fellow feels seedy.
There's only one trouble about it."
"Vot iss it?" asked Karl, hoping that perhaps he might overcome the difficulty.

"Why, it's all on the outside," said Bentley. "If there were only some apparatus that would enable you to get inside a fellow's head and clear out the pains of the morning after, what a blessing it would be."
"Vell," said Karl, "I think that maybe some day dose vacuum cleaner fellows will dot already. Vot?"—Harper's Weekly.

The Practical Goat.

M. Jules Renard was the mayor of Corbigny, in the Nievre. Every Sunday he contributed to the Journal de Clamecy, and this is the sort of things he used to give the peasants. Writing of the Journal Officiel, posted up on the wall of the mairie and which no one ever reads, he said:

"I had forgotten the goats. One of them never misses a number. Standing on its hind legs, with its front legs resting on the poster, it moves its horns and beard from right to left, like an old woman reading. When it has finished reading, as the official sheet has an appetizing smell of fresh paste, the goat eats it. After nourishing the mind one must feed the body.
Thus nothing is lost in the commune.
What a pity that all novel readers have not the stomach of this practical goat! They might then eat the books they had read, buy more, and so the man of letters would in the end be able to eat in his turn."—Paris Letter to London Globe.

Mr. Gladstone's Catch.

"How many members of this house," asked Mr. Gladstone once in the course of a debate on electoral qualifications, "can divide £1,330 17s. 6d. by £2 13s.
8d."?
"Six hundred and fifty-eight," shouted one member.

"The thing cannot be done," exclaimed another.

A roar of laughter greeted this last remark. But it was true nevertheless.
You cannot multiply or divide money by money. You may repeat a smaller sum of money as many times as it is contained in a larger sum of money, but that is a very different thing. If you repeat 5 shillings as often as there are hairs in a horse's tail you do not multiply 5 shillings by a horse's tail.
Perhaps you did not know this before.
Never mind; you need not be ashamed of your ignorance, for it was shared as has been demonstrated, by the entire house of commons (bar one member), including the then chancellor of the exchequer.

Hunter and Hunted.

A nearsighted sportsman strolled into a little hotel on the shores of Loch Carron and complainingly said, "Just seen a seal, shot at it three times and missed it each time." At dinner an hour later he sat next to a tourist who had a bandage round his head.
"Had an accident?" asked the sportsman.
"Accident?" growled the other. "Attempted murder, you mean. I was having a bath about an hour ago when some lunatic with a gun fired at me three times from the shore and shot part of my ear off. I don't know why such animals are allowed out without a license."
Then silence reigned supreme.—London Telegraph.

Lavishness.

"In days of old luxurious people had cloth of gold placed beneath their feet."

"Yes," replied Mr. Chuggins. "But those times were comparatively economical. Now we want nothing less expensive than rubber tires between us and the earth."—Washington Star.

There Was No Music.

"What is the greatest fib that ever impressed itself on your experience, Snapper?"
"Well, by all odds, the worst one I ever heard was that your quartet performed last night when they came round to the house and sang 'There's Music in the Air.'"

The Terms of Exchange.

"We wish to arrange for an exchange of prisoners," announced the South American diplomat.
"On what basis?" inquired the leader of the other side.

"The usual basis—eight generals for a good, husky private."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Quick Sprint.

Sandy Pikes—Dat rich guy in de bungalow took quite a fancy to me.
He took me around to de stable, showed me de $5,000 bulldog he had just bought and asked me if I could beat it.
Griddy George—And what did you say?
Sandy Pikes—Nuttin'. I just beat it.
—Chicago News.

Was Willing.

Smith—You and Jones don't seem to be as friendly as you were. Does he owe you money? Brown—No, not exactly, but he wanted to.
